However, in applying the disregards, each employed parent will receive the benefit of the work expense disregard pursuant to subsection (g)(1).

- (5) The remaining income shall be deemed available to the assistance unit as follows:
 - (A) When the stepparent enters the home after the first of the month, prorate the remaining income from the date the stepparent entered the home. The same procedure specified in section 17-680-12(b) shall be used to prorate the deemed income; or
 - (B) The stepparent's total remaining income shall be deemed available to the assistance unit when the stepparent is in the home on the first of the month.
- (h) The income of a stepparent receiving Supplemental Security Income benefits shall be exempt in determining eligibility for the federally funded AFDC category.
- (i) The assistance unit's failure to provide information and verification regarding a stepparent's income, a legal guardian's income, or a natural, legal, hanai, or adoptive parent's income shall disqualify the assistance unit from receiving financial assistance.

UNOFFICIAL

(j) The adult applicant or recipient shall determine whether a common law spouse, who is not the legal, natural or adoptive parent of the children, is willing to provide a voluntary contribution towards household expenses. The adult's failure to assist in determining whether the common law spouse is willing to contribute towards the adult's household expenses shall disqualify the adult for financial assistance.

 - (B) The recipient has experienced a problem in mailing which the recipient could not prevent; or
 - (C) Of other reasons which are beyond the control of the individual. Good cause for these other reasons must be determined on a case by case basis.
- (f) Monthly net earned income for each applicant and recipient shall be added to any unearned income to determine net income for the family.
- (g) If the family's net income does not exceed the standard of assistance, the family shall be eligible for benefits. [Eff 1/25/97; am 9/26/97; am 7/16/99] (Auth: HRS §346-14) (Imp: HRS §346-29; Waiver Terms and Conditions, August 16, 1996, Administration

DETERMINING MONTHLY INCOME IN THE FOOD STAMP PROGRAM

§17-676-67 Rounding technique in calculating net monthly income. The rounding procedure used by the department's AFDC program as specified in section 17-676-50 shall be used to calculate the food stamp net income and benefit level. [Eff 3/19/93] (Auth: HRS §346-14) (Imp: 7 C.F.R. §273.10(e))

§17-676-68 Determining net monthly income. (a)
A household's net food stamp monthly income shall be determined by applying the rounding technique specified in section 17-676-67 and the method set forth in this section.

(b) Add the gross monthly income earned by all household members, including any net self-employment income, minus earned income exclusions as defined in subchapter 11, and the total monthly unearned income, less income exclusions, as defined in subchapter 11, to determine the household's total gross income. Net losses from the self-employment income of a farmer shall be offset in accordance with chapter 17-663.

(c) Multiply the total gross earned income by twenty per cent and subtract that amount to determine net monthly income from earnings.

(d) Subtract the standard deduction.

(e) Subtract monthly dependent care expenses, if any, up to the allowable maximum. To complete computing the food stamp net monthly income for a household in which a member is elderly or disabled the method specified in subsections (j) to (k) shall be followed.

(f) Subtract the legally obligated child support payments that are paid by a household member.

(g) Total the allowable shelter expenses such as rent, mortgage, and utility costs to determine shelter costs. Subtract from the total shelter cost fifty per cent of the adjusted income (the household's monthly income after the deductions in subsections (c) to (e) have been subtracted). The remaining amount, if any, is the excess shelter cost. If there is no excess shelter cost, the food stamp net monthly income has been determined. If there is an excess shelter cost, the shelter deduction shall be determined.

(h) The shelter deduction, if any, shall be one of the following:

(1) If the excess shelter cost is equal to or more than the allowable maximum, the shelter deduction is the allowable maximum; or

(2) If the excess shelter cost is less than the allowable maximum, the shelter deduction is the actual amount of the excess shelter cost.

(i) Subtract the shelter deduction, if any, from the adjusted income. The result is the food stamp net monthly income.

UNOFFICIAL

(j) To complete computation of the net food stamp monthly income for a household in which a member is elderly or disabled as defined in chapter 17-655:

- (1) Add all nonreimbursable medical expenses, then subtract $35 from the total nonreimbursable medical expenses to determine the monthly medical deduction. Subtract the medical deduction from the adjusted net income in subsection (e);
- (2) Total allowable shelter expenses to determine shelter costs. Subtract from total shelter costs fifty per cent of the household's adjusted net income after all the above deductions have been subtracted. The remaining amount, if any, is the shelter deduction; and
- (3) Subtract the shelter deduction from the household's adjusted net income as determined by this subsection. The net result is the household's food stamp net income.

(k) The food stamp net monthly income shall be compared to the net monthly income eligibility standards for the appropriate household size as specified in chapter 17-680 to determine eligibility for the month. [Eff 3/19/93; am 10/13/95] (Auth: HRS §346-14) (Imp: 7 C.F.R. §§273.10(e)(1) and (2); 273.21(g))

§17-676-69 Determining income for prospectively and retrospectively budgeted households. (a) To determine the household's eligibility and level of benefits for prospectively budgeted households, the branch shall take into account income already received by the household during the certification period and shall count any anticipated income which the household and branch are reasonably certain will be received during the remainder of the certification period.

- (1) If the amount of income to be received or the time the income will be received is uncertain, that portion of the income which is uncertain shall not be counted. Households shall be required to report the income when it is received.

UNOFFICIAL

- (A) For example, a household anticipating income from a new source, such as a new job or public assistance benefits for which the household recently applied, may be uncertain as to the timing and amount of the initial payment. These moneys shall not be anticipated by the branch unless there is reasonable certainty concerning the month in which the payment will be received and the amount that will be received.
 - (B) If the exact amount of the income is not known, that portion of income that is anticipated with reasonable certainty shall be considered income. In cases where the receipt of money is reasonably certain but the monthly amount fluctuates, the household may elect to average income.
- (2) Income received during the thirty days prior to application may be used as an indicator of the income that is and will be available to the household during the certification period. However, past income shall not be used as an indicator of anticipated income for any month in which a change in income such as a raise has occurred or is anticipated. If income fluctuates to the extent that a thirty-day period alone cannot provide an accurate indication of anticipated income, the branch and the household may use two or more months prior to application if the additional period of time will provide a more accurate indication of anticipated fluctuation in future income.
- (A) If the household's income fluctuates seasonally, it may be appropriate to use the most recent season comparable to the certification period, rather than the last thirty days, as one indicator of anticipated income.
 - (B) In no event shall the branch automatically attribute to the household the amounts of any past income because the income may fluctuate from one season in one year to the same season in the next year. The branch shall not use past income as an indicator of anticipated income when changes in income have occurred or can be anticipated during the certification period.

(b) For retrospectively budgeted households, the branch shall determine the household's monthly gross earned income in the beginning months by one of the following methods:

- (1) The preceding month's income, provided the source of income, rate of pay, and frequency of pay are expected to remain the same. The individual's:
 - (A) Source of income shall be considered to remain the same as long as the individual has the same job with the same employer;
 - (B) Rate of pay shall be considered to remain the same as long as the hourly wage or monthly salary will not change and the terms of employment, full-time, part-time, or on-call, do not change; and
 - (C) Frequency of pay shall be considered to remain the same as long as there is no change in how often the individual is paid; or
- (2) Project the amount of monthly gross earned income when the source of income, rate of pay, or frequency of pay is not expected to remain the same. One of the following methods shall be used to project monthly gross earned income:
 - (A) An estimate is obtained from the employer;
 - (B) Multiply the hourly wage by the number of hours the individual anticipates being paid for in the issuance month;
 - (C) Multiply the weekly gross income by the number of weeks the income would be available in the issuance month; or

UNOFFICIAL

- (D) The monthly salary the individual anticipates receiving.
- (c) For retrospectively budgeted households, the branch shall determine the household's monthly gross unearned income by one of the following methods:
 - (1) The preceding month's gross unearned income when the amount or source is expected to remain the same; or
 - (2) Project the amount of gross unearned income when the amount or source is not expected to remain the same or the household anticipates receipt of unearned income which was not available in the preceding month.
- (d) When the branch determines that a household has failed to cooperate in providing information, with supporting documents, to determine eligibility prospectively, the household shall be ineligible for food stamp benefits. Failure to cooperate includes, but is not limited to:
 - (1) Failure to provide accurate and complete information;
 - (2) Failure to provide verification of circumstances; or
 - (3) Any other action on the part of the household that prevents a correct determination of eligibility.
- (e) If an applicant household receives a temporary increase in its recurring actual income, such as but not limited to, months in which there are five weekly or three biweekly pay periods, or receives another type of increase that is not expected to continue, such as sporadic overtime in either of the first two beginning months, the branch shall process the application as follows:
 - (1) If the periodic increase in recurring income results in the ineligibility of the household for the first month of application, the branch shall deny the application for that month and determine the households eligibility for the subsequent month.
 - (2) If the periodic increase in recurring income results in the household's ineligibility for the second month of application, the branch shall:

UNOFFICIAL

- (A) Approve the application if the household is eligible from the initial month of application;
- (B) Assign a normal certification period;
- (C) Suspend the case for the second month of the certification period; and
- (D) Disregard the extra income that was received in the second month when determining the household's eligibility and benefits for the corresponding issuance month. [Eff 2/7/94; am 12/9/94] (Auth: HRS §346-14) (Imp: 7 C.F.R. §273.10(c)(1))

§17-676-70 Anticipated income for month received.

(a) Income anticipated during the certification period shall be counted as income only in the month it is expected to be received, unless the income is averaged. Nonrecurring lump-sum payments shall be counted as an asset starting in the month received and shall not be counted as income.

(b) In cases where the head of the household is steadily employed, income from previous months may be used as an indicator of the amount of income that may be anticipated in the month of application and subsequent months. If information supplied by the household or a collateral contact indicates that future income will differ substantially from the previous month's income, the branch shall use the information to make a reasonable estimate of anticipated income. The method used to determine income shall be fully documented in the case file.

(c) For prospectively budgeted households, in computing the amount of a household member's anticipated income, the branch shall project the anticipated income as follows:

- (1) Obtain an estimate of the monthly amount from the source of the income;

UNOFFICIAL

- (2) Convert income received on a weekly or biweekly basis to a monthly amount by multiplying the income by:
 - (A) The $4 \frac{1}{3}$ conversion factor for weekly amounts; or
 - (B) The $2 \frac{1}{6}$ conversion factor for biweekly amounts; or
- (3) Budget the monthly amount the individual anticipates receiving.

The branch may use the exact monthly figure if the income can be anticipated for each month of the certification period.

(d) For retrospectively budgeted households, when determining the household's prospective eligibility because of a change in the household's source or amount of income, the branch shall project the household's anticipated income as follows:

- (1) Project the amount of monthly gross earned income using one of the following methods:
 - (A) An estimate of the household's monthly gross earned income from the employer;
 - (B) Multiply the hourly wage by the number of hours the individual anticipates being paid for in the issuance month;
 - (C) Multiply the weekly gross income by the number of weeks the income would be available in the issuance month;
 - (D) Multiply the biweekly gross income by the number of payments that would be available in the issuance month; or
 - (E) The monthly salary the individual anticipates receiving.
- (2) Project the household's monthly gross unearned income using one of the following methods:
 - (A) Obtain an estimate from the source of the income;
 - (B) Multiply the hourly amount by the number of hours the individual anticipates being compensated for in the issuance month;
 - (C) Multiply the weekly amount by the number of weeks the income would be available in the issuance month;

UNOFFICIAL

- (D) Multiply the biweekly amount by the number of payments that would be available in the issuance month; or
- (E) The monthly amount the individual anticipates receiving.

(e) When income is received on an hourly wage or piece work basis, weekly income may fluctuate if the wage earner works less than eight hours on some days or is required to work overtime on others. The branch shall consult with the household to determine the amount of income to be expected as a result of one-week's work. This amount shall be used to determine monthly income.

(f) Wages held at the request of the employee shall be considered income to the household in the month the wages would otherwise have been paid by the employer. However, wages held by the employer as a general practice, even if in violation of law, shall not be counted as income to the household, unless the household anticipates that the household will ask for and receive an advance, or the household anticipates that it will receive income from wages previously held as a general practice which were not previously counted as income. Advances on wages shall count as income in the month received only if reasonably anticipated.

(g) Households receiving state or federal assistance payments, such as financial assistance benefits, SSI benefits, or social security payments on a recurring, monthly basis shall not have monthly income from these sources varied merely because the mailing cycle may cause two payments to be received in one month and no payments in the next month. §17-676-71 Averaging income and expenses. (a) Households, except for destitute households and households subject to monthly reporting requirements, may elect to have income averaged. Income shall not be averaged for a destitute household since averaging would result in assigning to the month of application income from future periods which is not available to the destitute household for its current food needs. To average income, the branch shall use the household's anticipation of income fluctuations over the certification period. The number of months used to obtain the average income need not be the same as the number of months in the certification period.

(b) Households which, by contract or self-employment, derive annual income intended to support the household for a year, in a period of time shorter than one year shall have that income averaged over a twelve-month period, provided the income from the contract is not received on an hourly or piecework basis. The households may include school employees, share croppers, farmers, and other self-employed households. However, these provisions shall not apply to migrant or seasonal farm workers. If the self-employment income is intended to support the household for only part of the year, the income shall be averaged over the period of time it is intended to cover. The procedures for averaging self-employment income are specified in subchapter 6 of chapter 17-663.

(c) Households receiving scholarships, deferred education loans, or other educational grants shall have the income, after exclusions, averaged over the period for which it was provided. Rules pertaining to student households are specified in chapter 17-663.

(d) Households may elect to have fluctuating expenses averaged. Households may elect to have expenses which are billed less often than on a monthly basis averaged forward over the interval between scheduled billings, or, if there is no scheduled interval, averaged forward over the period the expense is intended to cover regardless of the certification period.

- (1) Households may elect to have one-time only expenses averaged over the entire certification period in which they are billed.
- (2) Households reporting one-time only medical expenses during their certification period may elect to have a one-time deduction or to have the expense averaged over the remaining months of their certification period.

UNOFFICIAL

Averaging would begin the month the change would become effective. [Eff 2/7/94] (Auth: HRS §346-14) (Imp: 7 C.F.R. §§273.10 (c)(3) and (d)(3), 273.21)

§17-676-72 Income deductions. Deductions shall be allowed for the following household expenses:

- (1) The monthly standard deduction per household which is set by the USDA;
- (2) An earned income deduction of twenty per cent of all gross earned income other than income excluded to compensate for taxes, other mandatory deductions from salary, and work expenses;
- (3) The payments for the actual costs for the care of a child or other dependent when necessary for a household member to accept or continue employment, attend training or education which is preparatory to employment, or to seek employment in accordance with the job search criteria, or an equivalent effort by those not subject to job search requirements. The deduction shall not exceed $200 a month for each dependent child under two years of age and $175 a month for each other dependent living in the household. The department shall use the figures provided by USDA;
- (4) That portion of medical expenses in excess of $35 per month, excluding special diets, incurred by any household member who is elderly or disabled as defined in section 17-663-1. Spouses or other persons receiving benefits as a dependent of the SSI or disability and blindness recipient shall not be eligible to receive this deduction. Persons who receive only state supplemental benefits and not federal SSI benefits shall not be eligible for medical or shelter deductions as SSI recipients unless the persons are elderly or disabled as defined in section 17-663-1.

(A) Persons receiving payments listed in clauses (i) and (ii) shall be entitled to the medical or shelter deductions provided the persons receive an SSI check. Persons who receive the agency operated benefit program payment listed in clause (iii) shall not be entitled to the deductions. The programs include:

- (i) SSI presumptive disability payments which are regular benefits for a three month period paid to persons who will most likely meet SSI disability criteria. These persons shall be considered eligible for SSI by SSA and shall receive a federal SSI check;
- (ii) SSI emergency advance payment which is a single $100 payment provided to applicants who appear to meet the eligibility criteria and who are considered in need of immediate assistance. These persons shall be considered eligible for SSI by SSA; and
- (iii) Agency administered temporary assistance payments (loan) which may be made to households not entitled to SSI. If the persons are later determined eligible for SSI, the SSI retroactive benefit check shall be given to the agency as repayment for benefits provided. The households shall not be considered eligible for SSI by SSA during the period when general assistance payments are made.

(B) Allowable medical costs include:

- (i) Medical and dental care including psychotherapy and rehabilitation

UNOFFICIAL

- services provided by a licensed practitioner authorized by state law or other qualified health professionals;
- (ii) Hospitalization or outpatient treatment, nursing care, and nursing home care including payments by the household for an individual who was a household member immediately prior to entering a hospital or nursing home provided by a facility recognized by the State;
- (iii) Prescription drugs when prescribed by a licensed practitioner authorized under state law and other over-the-counter medication, including insulin when approved by a licensed practitioner or other qualified health professional;
- (iv) Costs of medical supplies, sickroom equipment, including rental, or other prescribed equipment;
- (v) Health and hospitalization insurance policy premiums. The costs of health and accident policies such as those payable in lump sum settlements for death or dismemberment or income maintenance policies such as those that continue mortgage or loan payments while the beneficiary is disabled shall not be deductible;
- (vi) Medicare premiums related to coverage under Title XVIII of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. §1395) and any cost-sharing or spend down expenses incurred by medicaid recipients;
- (vii) Dentures, hearing aids, and prosthetics;

UNOFFICIAL

- (viii) Securing and maintaining a seeing eye dog or hearing dog including the cost of dog food and veterinarian bills;
 - (ix) Eye glasses prescribed by a physician skilled in eye disease or by an optometrist;
 - (x) Reasonable cost of transportation and lodging to obtain medical treatment or services; and
 - (xi) Maintaining an attendant, home-maker, home health aide, child care giver, or a housekeeper to aid a person because of age, infirmity, or illness. In addition, an amount equal to the one person coupon allotment shall be deducted if the household furnishes the majority of the attendant's meals. The allotment for the meal related deduction shall be the amount in effect at the time of initial certification. The branch shall be required to update the allotment amount at the next scheduled recertification, however, the branch may do so earlier. If a household incurs attendant care costs that may qualify under both the medical deduction and dependent care deduction, the branch shall treat the cost as a medical expense;
- (C) That portion of an allowable medical expense which is not reimbursable. Households entitled to the medical deduction shall have the nonreimbursable amount deducted when the bill is received or can otherwise be verified; and
- (D) One-time only medical expenses during the certification period. A household may elect to have a one-time deduction or to have the expense averaged over the remaining months of the certification period. Averaging shall begin the month the change becomes effective;

- (5) Monthly shelter costs in excess of fifty per cent of the household's income after all the deductions in paragraphs (1) to (4) have been allowed. The shelter deduction shall not exceed the shelter maximum which is established by the USDA unless the household contains a member who is elderly or disabled as defined in section 17-663-1. The households shall receive a limitless shelter deduction for the monthly shelter cost that exceeds fifty per cent of the household's monthly income after all other applicable deductions. Households in which all members are homeless and are not receiving free shelter throughout the calendar month shall be eligible for the homeless standard estimate as a shelter deduction. The standard estimate amount is computed annually effective October of each calendar year and provided by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. All homeless households that incur or reasonably expect to incur shelter costs during a month shall be eligible for the estimate unless higher shelter costs are verified, at which point, the household may use actual shelter costs rather than the estimate. If a homeless household has difficulty in obtaining the verification of its shelter costs, the branch shall use prudent judgment in determining if verification obtained is adequate. For example, if a homeless individual claims to have incurred shelter costs for several nights and the costs are comparable to costs incurred by homeless people for shelter, the branch shall accept this information as adequate verification and not require further verification. Homeless households that incur no shelter costs during the month shall not be eligible for the standard estimate.

Shelter costs shall include only the following:

- (A) Continuing charges made for the shelter occupied by a household, whether the payment is made as rent, mortgage, or other payment leading to the ownership of the shelter, including interest on the payments. For example, down payments and closing costs are usually lump sum payments and shall not be allowed as continuing shelter cost deductions. If the closing costs are itemized to identify costs which are allowable deductions, such as insurance and property taxes, then the allowable costs shall be deducted as shelter costs;
- (B) Property taxes, state and local assessments, and insurance on the structure, but not separate costs for insuring furniture or personal belongings. The household may choose to have the property tax and insurance costs deducted the month billed or to have the expenses averaged ahead over the interval between billings;
- (C) Charges for heating, cooling, cooking fuel; electricity; water and sewer; garbage and trash collection fees; the basic service fee for one telephone, including tax on the basic fee; and fees charged by the utility provider for initial installation of the utility. One time deposits shall not be included as shelter costs;
- (D) The shelter costs in subparagraphs (A), (B), and (C) for a home if not actually occupied by a household because of employment or training away from home, illness, or abandonment of the home due to natural disaster or casualty loss. For the costs of a vacated home to be included in shelter costs, the household shall intend to return to the home. The current occupants of the home, if any, shall not claim the shelter costs during the absence of the household and the home shall not be leased or rented in the household's absence. Households claiming utility costs for unoccupied homes shall verify the actual expenses and the standard utility allowance shall not be substituted; and

- (E) Charges for the repair of a home which is substantially damaged or destroyed due to a natural disaster such as a fire or flood. Shelter costs shall not include charges for repair of a home that have been or will be reimbursed by private or public relief agencies, insurance companies, or from any other source; and
- (6) Child support payments, paid by a member of the food stamp household, that are legally obligated to be paid to or for a nonhousehold member. The branch shall require the household to verify the child support payments in accordance with section 17-647-32.
 - (A) Households that fail to verify or refuse to obtain the necessary verification of their legal obligation or of their child support payments shall not be entitled to the child support deduction. In these situations, the branch shall determine the household's eligibility and benefit level without the child support deduction.
 - (B) Legally obligated child support payments that are paid to a third party (e.g., a landlord or utility company) on behalf of the nonhousehold member in accordance with the support order shall be included in the child support deduction. Payments that are made by the household member to obtain health insurance for the nonhousehold child or children shall also be included as part of the child support deduction.

- (C) Households that have at least a three-month record of child support payments shall be permitted a deduction for amounts paid toward arrearages.
- (D) Alimony payments made to or for a nonhousehold member shall not be included in the child support deduction.
- (E) Households that are eligible to receive a child support deduction shall report changes in accordance with the reporting requirements specified in section 17-680-30. [Eff 2/7/94; am 8/18/94; am 10/13/95] (Auth: HRS §346-14) (Imp: 7 C.F.R. §273.9(d))

§17-676-73 Standard utility allowance. (a) The department shall establish individual standard utility allowances for use in calculating shelter costs of households which incur utility costs separate from the rent or mortgage. The specific standard shall be allowed only if the household is billed separately for the specific utility cost. The household shall be advised that actual individual utility costs which exceed the individual standards shall be deducted only if the household can verify the costs. Households which live in public housing or other rental units which have central utility meters and charge the household only for excess utilities shall not be permitted to use the fuel or electricity standards.

(b) The department shall establish a mandatory telephone allowance for use in conjunction with the standard utility allowances. The telephone allowance shall be used for households which have telephone expenses. The telephone allowance shall be used even if actual costs are higher. The telephone allowance shall be prorated if more than one household shares the telephone expenses.

(c) Households may change between actual utility costs and the standard utility allowances at each recertification action and one additional time during each twelve-month period following the initial certification action. Households shall be advised at the time of certification and recertification of the right to claim actual utility costs if the individual utility cost exceeds the standard for that utility. They shall be further advised of their right to switch between the use of actual utility costs and the standard utility allowances.

(d) Households which share utilities with any other household shall have the individual allowances prorated among all household members. If the branch is unable to actually determine the prorata share of utility costs paid by the parties, the actual utility costs paid by each household shall be used. Under no circumstances shall the total amount of utility costs used to determine the amount of the deduction exceed either the total amount of actual utility costs for the residence if actual costs are being used, or the individual standard utility allowances if the standard is being used.

(e) Households shall not be entitled to the utility standard for an individual utility cost if all the cost is paid by an excluded vendor payment. With the exception of households residing in public housing or other rental units that have central utility meters who charge the household for excess utilities, the household shall be eligible to claim the standard utility allowance if the household is responsible to pay any portion of the utility cost that is billed to the household.

(f) Households that receive indirect (vendor) energy assistance payments except as provided in subsection (g) may be eligible for the standard utility allowance if they continue to incur out-of-pocket utility expenses during any month for which the energy assistance payment is intended. When the energy assistance payment is reported to the branch, it shall be divided by the twelve-month period for which it was intended. This amount shall then be compared with the household's actual monthly utility expenses. When the actual monthly expense exceeds the prorated energy assistance payment in any month, the household shall be entitled to claim the standard utility allowance. If the actual monthly expense is less than the prorated energy assistance payment in all of the preceding twelve months, the household shall claim the actual utility expense only.

(g) Households that receive benefits funded through the Low Income Energy Assistance Act of 1981, (Title XXVI of Pub. L. No. 97-35), as amended (LIHEAA), whether directly or in the form of an indirect payment made to the energy provider on the household's behalf, shall be eligible to claim the department's standard utility allowance. The energy expense covered by LIHEAA benefits shall be considered to be an out of pocket expense for the purpose of determining eligibility to receive the standard utility allowance.

(h) The department shall review the standard utility allowances and telephone allowance annually and shall adjust the allowances as necessary to reflect changes in the cost of utilities. The standard utility allowances shall remain in effect during the period of October 1 through September 30 of each year.

(i) The sewer and trash standard utility allowance shall be an average of the sewer rate and trash rate of all counties weighted by the percent of the total food stamp population in each county.

(j) The telephone allowance shall be an average of the telephone rate of all counties weighted by the percent of the total food stamp population in each county. The rate for each county shall be the sum of basic line rental, basic subscriber rate, and rental of one standard rotary instrument.

(k) The water standard utility allowance shall be an average of the water rate of all counties proportioned according to household size and weighted by the percentage of the total food stamp population in each county. The rate for each county shall be the sum of the meter charge, power charge, and rate charge for thirteen thousand gallons.

(l) The electricity and gas standard utility allowance shall be an average of the electricity rate and gas rate of all counties weighted by the percentage of the total food stamp population in each county:

- (1) Electricity rate for each county shall be proportioned according to household size and shall be the sum of the customer charge and the product of the kilowatt hours by number of bedrooms and rate charge;
- (2) Gas rate for each county shall be an average of the basic gas rate and electricity rate. Basic gas rate for each county shall be proportioned according to household size and shall be the sum of the customer charge and the product of the therms by number of bedrooms and rate charge.
- (m) Households which incur utility costs for utilities other than the standard allowances shall be allowed the actual utility costs if the household can verify the cost. [Eff 2/7/94; am 10/13/95] (Auth: HRS §346-14) (Imp: 7 C.F.R. §273.9(d)(6))

§17-676-74 Determining deductions. (a) Deductible expenses shall include only certain costs of dependent care, shelter, child support, and medical costs.

(b) An expense paid by an excluded reimbursement or vendor payment such as government rent, utility reimbursements made by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), or child care subsidy shall not be deductible. Any portion of the expense not covered by the vendor payment or reimbursement is deductible.

(c) Expenses shall only be deductible if the service is provided by a person outside the food stamp household and the household makes a money payment for the service. Expenses shall not be deductible if compensation paid by the household for the service is paid through an in-kind benefit such as food or lodging in exchange for child care. An expense covered by an excluded reimbursement or vendor payment shall not be deductible. For example, the portion of rent covered by excluded vendor payments shall not be calculated as part of the household's shelter cost.

(d) Unless an expense is averaged, with the exception of determining the child support deduction, an expense shall be allowed only in the month it becomes due for prospectively budgeted households, or in the corresponding issuance month from the month the expense becomes due for retrospectively budgeted households, regardless of when the household intends to pay the expense. Amounts which are past due shall not be deductible even if included with the most recent billing and which are actually paid by the household. A particular expense shall only be deducted once.

(1) Recurring monthly deductible expenses such as rent and utility cost shall be allowed once a month. Interim adjustment need not be made because two bills were received in the same month. For example, if a household certified from August through October is billed for electricity in August, in early September for September, and again in late September for October, the household shall be allowed a deduction for each of the three months from August through October.

(2) If a renter or boarder has agreed with the landlord to pay certain utility costs, but the utilities are billed in the landlord's name, the household shall be allowed a deduction for the utility costs which are paid to the landlord. Although the household is not billed for the expense, the expense is otherwise due. When two households reside in the same home, share utility expenses, and only one household is billed for the utility expenses, both households may claim utility expenses since both pay for utilities.

(e) During the household's initial certification and recertification interviews, the household members, who are eligible to claim the excess medical expense deduction, shall report and verify all medical expenses. The household's monthly medical deduction for the certification period shall be based on the information reported and verified by the household. The household shall be allowed to give a reasonable estimate of its medical expenses that are expected to be incurred during the course of the household's certification period. The estimated amount should be based upon available information about the member's medical condition, public or private medical insurance coverage, and the current verified medical expenses incurred by the household member. The households that give such an estimate shall not be required to file reports about its medical expenses during the certification period. If the household voluntarily reports a change in its medical expenses, the branch shall:

- (1) Verify the change in accordance with section 17-647-32(i) if the change would increase the household's allotment; or
 - (2) If the reported change would decrease the household's allotment or make the household ineligible, act upon the change without requiring verification, though verification which is required by section 17-647-32(I) shall be obtained prior to the household's next recertification.
- (f) The branch shall calculate the household's expenses as follows:
- (1) For a prospectively budgeted household, with the exception of determining the household's child support deduction, the allowable expenses shall be based on what the household expects to be billed during the certification period. Anticipation of the expense shall be based on the most recent month's bills unless the household is reasonably certain a change will occur. When the household is not claiming the utility standard, the actual utility cost shall be verified, then projected for the certification period.
 - (A) For prospectively budgeted households with a history of three or more months of paying child support, the branch shall average at least three months of child support, taking into account any anticipated changes in the legal

- obligation, and use that average as the household's support deduction;
- (B) For prospectively budgeted households with no child support payment record or less than a three-month record, the branch shall estimate the anticipated payments (excluding payments toward arrearages) and use that estimate as the household's support deduction.
- (2) For a retrospectively budgeted household, with the exception of determining the household's child support and medical deductions, the expenses for the issuance month shall be based on the amount that was due in the corresponding budget month, excluding any past due amount, or as averaged in accordance with section 17-676-71. When the household is not claiming the appropriate utility standard allowances, the actual utility cost shall be verified and used to determine the household's allotment.
- (A) In calculating the child support deduction, the branch shall initially use either subsection (f)(1)(A) or (B), as appropriate, for the beginning months of the household's retrospective cycle. Once the household is in the retrospective budgeting cycle, the branch shall allow the legally obligated child support payment that has been verified as the household's child support deduction;
 - (B) Medical expenses shall be reported and verified at the household's certification or recertification interviews. The medical expenses shall be budgeted prospectively throughout the household's certification period. SUBCHAPTER 8

AVAILABILITY AND VERIFICATION OF INCOME

§17-676-75 Availability and verification of income in the financial assistance programs. (a) All individuals shall apply for and develop potential sources of income.

(b) The department shall deny or terminate financial assistance or medical assistance only when the individual fails to apply for and develop potential sources of income and fails to provide the department with verification to determine the amount of the income.

(c) When the department determines that an assistance unit has failed to cooperate in providing information, supported by documents to determine eligibility or the amount of assistance, the assistance unit shall be ineligible for financial assistance or medical assistance only. Failure to cooperate includes, but is not limited to failure to provide accurate and complete information, failure to provide verification, or any other action on the part of the individual that prevents a correct determination of eligibility or amount of assistance.

(d) In the financial assistance programs, when the individual fails to apply for and develop a specific source of income, but provides the department with verification of the amount the individual is entitled to receive, that amount shall be budgeted in determining eligibility and the amount of assistance. This provision shall not be implemented in the medical assistance only programs. [Eff 3/19/93; am 8/1/94] (Auth: HRS §§346-14, 346-29, 346-53) (Imp: 45 C.F.R. §§233.20, 233.31, 233.33)

§17-676-76 Availability and verification of income in the food stamp program. (a) Gross nonexempt income shall be verified for all households prior to certification. However, where all attempts to verify income have been unsuccessful, because the income provider fails to cooperate with the household and the branch, and all other sources of verification are unavailable, the branch shall determine an amount to be used, based on the best available information.

(b) The branch shall use documentary evidence as the primary source of verification. Whenever documentary evidence cannot be obtained, alternate sources such as collateral contacts and home visits shall be used for verification.

(c) The branch shall determine on a case by case basis when to verify loans, but shall verify loans in any questionable case. When verifying that income is exempt as a loan, a statement signed by both parties indicating the payment is a loan which shall be repaid shall be sufficient verification. However, if the household receives payments on a recurrent or regular basis from the same source but claims the payments are loans, the branch may also require that the provider of the loan sign an statement which states that repayments are being made or that payments will be made in accordance with an established repayment schedule.

(d) Earned income may be verified through documents from the applicant including, but not limited to:

- (1) Pay stubs;
- (2) Pay envelope;
- (3) Employee's W-2 forms;
- (4) Wage tax receipts;
- (5) State or federal income tax return;
- (6) Self-employment bookkeeping records; or
- (7) Sales and expenditure records.

(e) Earned income may be verified through other sources including, but not limited to:

- (1) Employer's wage records;
- (2) Statement from employer;
- (3) State income tax department; or
- (4) Employment security office.

(f) In verifying other income to the household, documents or records generally available from the applicant may be used including, but not limited to:

- (1) Social security award letter (changes in benefits may not always be reflected);
- (2) Benefit payment check;
- (3) Unemployment compensation letter;
- (4) Pension award notice;
- (5) Correspondence on benefits;

UNOFFICIAL

- (6) Income tax records;
- (7) Railroad retirement award letter;
- (8) Support and alimony payments evidenced by court order, divorce, separation papers, or contribution check; or
- (9) Veterans administration award notice.
- (g) Other documents or records from the following sources may also be used for verification including, but not limited to:
 - (1) Social security card;
 - (2) Social security district office files;
 - (3) Bureau of employment security, unemployment compensation section;
 - (4) Employer's records;
 - (5) Union records;
 - (6) Worker's compensation records;
 - (7) Veterans administration records;
 - (8) Insurance company records;
 - (9) Tax records; or
 - (10) Railroad retirement board records.
- (h) If documentary evidence of social security benefits is not readily available from the applicant, the branch may verify the income through the Beneficiary Data Exchange (BENDEX). The amount of social security benefits reported on the application shall be used to compute the household's eligibility and benefit level pending receipt of verification from BENDEX.
- (i) In addition to verifying reported income, the branch may investigate the possibilities of unreported income. If it appears that the applicant may be eligible for other benefits, the branch may verify that the applicant is not receiving income from other sources such as social security, unemployment compensation, or public assistance. Additional situations in which the possibility of unreported income may be investigated include:
 - (1) Difficulty in contacting the head of the household at home;
 - (2) Seasonal employment at its peak in the area;
 - (3) Shelter costs higher than reported income; or
 - (4) Similar questionable situations.
- (j) A household's report of expenses which exceed its income may be grounds for a determination that further verification shall be required. However, these circumstances alone shall not be grounds for a denial. The branch shall review with the household how the household manages its finances, whether the household receives excluded income or has resources, and how long the household has managed under these circumstances. Temporary interruptions in food stamp participation shall not alter the exclusion once an initial determination is made. For example, if an individual who is receiving food stamps subsequently joins VISTA and temporarily becomes ineligible for assistance because the individual is away for VISTA training, when the individual reapplies, the VISTA income shall be excluded because the VISTA volunteer was receiving food stamps at the time the person joined VISTA. New applicants who are not receiving financial assistance or food stamps at the time they joined VISTA, shall have the subsistence allowance included as earned income;

UNOFFICIAL
